

YANKEES, ALTHOUGH OUTLIT, DEFEAT ATHLETICS BY SCORE OF 5 TO 4

SHAWKEY HAS TIGHT SQUEEZE, BUT WINS

Mackinn Collect Ten Safeties for Eighteen Bases, Two Being Home Runs.

DEVORMER'S RAP HELPS

McMillan Also Strikes Timely Blow; Miller Makes Thrilling Catches.

Special Dispatch to The New York Herald. PHILADELPHIA, May 5.—The thrashed Yankees outlived the astounding Athletics this afternoon and evened up their series with the Mackinn Maulers by winning the second game of their series by a score of 5 to 4. Ten hits, for a total of eighteen bases and including home runs by outfielder Bing Miller and third baseman Jimmy Dykes rattled off the locals' bats, while the champs were making only seven hits for a total of eight bases; but what the Yankee wallops lacked in volume they made up in timeliness and effect.

Battling Bob Shawkey pitched for the Yankees and needed the brilliant support accorded him by divers and sundry members of the cast. More than once he tottered on the verge of disaster, but Shawkey came to his rescue twice with sensational catches, and Shortstop Everett Scott saved him on another palpitating occasion.

Rollie Naylor started for the Mackinns, but developed a streak of wildness in the second inning, and was lifted after passes to Miller, Pipp and Scott had filled the bases with only one out. Southpaw Moore succeeded him, and lasted, with indifferent success, until the eighth, in which a pinch hitter batted for him. Eddie Rommel finished and retired the Mackinns in order in the only inning he pitched.

Texas Leaguer Fruitful.

Manager Miller Huggins again watched proceedings from the grand stand, where he was joined in the second inning by outfielder Whitey Witt. The Philadelphia refugee ventured to criticize Umpire Tommy Connolly's judgment of a called strike in the ninth, and for his temerity he was promptly ordered off the field. Norman McMillan replaced him and scored two runs with a Texas League single to right.

Neither side scored in the opening round, in which Shawkey fanned both Young and Walker, but in the second the champions showed three runs across. Shawkey, who had pitched a perfect game, was relieved by Pipp, who pitched a perfect frame and drew a pass. Pipp also walked and after Ward had sacrificed Naylor filled the bases by falling to get one over for Scott, who batted a hit to the outfield.

Norman McMillan succeeded Witt at bat and dropped a Texas League back of Johnson, Pipp and Scott tallying and Shawkey going to the showers, but further scoring, however, Fewster going out on strikes. In the second half Welch and Dykes doubled after Perkins and Bing Miller had been retired, one run resulting. Miller came in from deep center field to make a tidy catch, which retired the side.

Macks Counter in Fourth.

The Macks countered again in the fourth, which Bing Miller owned with a single to right. Welch drew a pass and Dykes, with orders to sacrifice, batted and went to the showers. The Yankee flinger inadvertently "grooved" a fast one and the Mackinn mauler slapped it over the left field wall for a home run, which scored all three all.

With one out in the eighth Pipp singled to right and was forced at second on Ward's roller to Young. With an easy double play in eight Galloway was low throw to first and Ward was safe. Pipp scored on Johnson's sacrifice. Devormer, who previously had struck out twice and grounded into an easy force out at second, lived to right for a double. Miller scored on Johnson's sacrifice. He turned the Yankees back in the order of their appearance and Shawkey was equally effective against the Macks to his half.

Dykes Also Hits for Circuit.

Jimmy Dykes was the first man up in the Athletics half and the stocky third baseman walloped a homer over the left field bleachers. Frank Brazil subsequently batted for Pipp Moore and fled to Elmer Miller, and in the ninth Eddie Rommel, who pitched and won the opening game of the series for the Mackinns, ascended the three all. He turned the Yankees back in the order of their appearance and Shawkey was equally effective against the Macks to his half.

Yankees Sign Contract for Biggest Ball Park

Colonels Ruppert and Huston Declare They Believe in Future of Baseball.

By W. O. MCGEEHAN.

Actual work was started on the Yankees' new baseball park yesterday and contracts were let calling for the completion of the plant within eight months. By the end of that period the Yankees will have a triple deck grandstand which will seat 50,000 persons and other seating space to accommodate a crowd of between 65,000 and 70,000. While eight months is the outside limit set for the work the owners and the contractors believe that the work will be far enough along to permit the Yankees to play the world's series in the new park if they win the American League championship.

The contract which was let to the White Construction Company of New York calls for an immediate expenditure of $1,250,000. When the grandstand is extended to the limit the total investment made by Col. Jacob Ruppert and Col. T. L. Huston for their ball park will be the neighborhood of $1,600,000. The site lies just south of the 161st street station of the Jerome avenue subway line. It is just within the borough of the Bronx. The property was acquired some time ago after the owners of the Yankees failed to reach a lease agreement with the owners of the New York Giants in the matter of a long term lease for the Polo Grounds.

Biggest of Them All.

The new Yankee park will be the biggest baseball plant in the world. Some idea as to its capacity may be gained from the fact that the grandstand alone has a seating capacity of within 1,000 of the total capacity of the Polo Grounds as that park stands today.

The announcement of the letting of the contract was made at an impromptu afternoon tea in the Yankee offices yesterday. Among those pouring the champagne were the two Yankee owners, James G. Thompson and Jacob Ruppert, and the architect, Major Thomas Birmingham, assisting with the engineering work. Victor Gilpin and a host of Yankees were also present.

Bernard Green, the architect who designed the new Yankee stands, also designed the stands at the Polo Grounds and at Braves Field. A unique feature of the Yankee stands is a mezzanine deck which will accommodate something like 10,000 persons.

In making the announcement Col. Jacob Ruppert, speaking for himself and his partner, said: "I have perfect confidence in the future of baseball. I think that this investment which we are making shows that when we first bought the Yankees we were right. We have seen the growth of baseball and the betterment of the Yankee team sometimes have turned away from people who we could get into the Polo Grounds.

Expect to Fill Park.

"Last season was a record breaker and the one story that was a great success for us. Of course the current season has not started off so brightly, but there are plenty of reasons for that. We fully expect to fill the new park many times during 1922."

The Yankees have been an orphan baseball team since they quit the old Hilltop Grounds. When they were purchased from Frank Farrell by Ruppert and Huston in 1913, they declared that all new owners had bought nothing but a franchise and a massive collection of liabilities. The two Colonels had a verbal agreement running from year to year to play at the Polo Grounds.

For some time it looked as though Cobb's quip was no joke. The new owners of the Yankees found themselves involved in the fight between Organized Baseball and the Federal League. Even when this was settled the Yankees fell into some lean years. The team made no money.

CHICAGO, May 5.—Felding errors by Chicago coupled with opportune hitting by Sothoron's great pitching enabled Cleveland to make a clean sweep of the series here, taking the final game 6 to 3.

The former St. Louis pitcher, starting his first game of the season, did not allow a hit until the seventh. Charley Robertson, the rookie pitcher who pitched a perfect game at St. Louis last Sunday, attempted to repeat to-day, but only lasted six innings.

THE LISTENING POST

By WALTER TRUMBULL

SOMEHOW. From birth, until the long trail is ended, The future is a mist through which we grope Toward voices calling and toward visions splendid, Our guide the distant, flickering star of hope. We know, though darkness falls and clouds enfold us, After the night comes morning and the dew, And trust that, as some whisper clear has told us, Somehow, sometime, somewhere dreams must come true.

VARYING CONDITIONS. A good many people think that Carpenter might make a much better showing abroad against Dempsey than he did here. They assert that most of our athletes who have engaged in competition on the other side have performed below their real ability.

It has been a rare thing for our golfers to go very well over there, and the same is true of tennis players. Tilden won his matches, but he had to work like the yeast in a home brew to stave off defeat by men who over here might have given him no special difficulty.

We seem to remember to have been told that John L. Sullivan didn't do so well with Mitchell over yonder. Frank Moran did well enough, but he was boxing second and third raters.

It stands to reason that the difference in surroundings, climate, food and the manner of preparing it, customs and many other things must have a certain effect on the stranger. Then there is the mental attitude. It has been said that even with everything possible being done to amuse him, the champion is showing signs of homesickness. How would it be if he was in hard training? Of course, he wouldn't have to be at his best to beat Carpenter, but if they had a real heavyweight over there Jack might be foolish to defend his title on foreign soil.

We met Walter Monahan, who was with Willard at the time of his fights with Johnson, Moran and Dempsey. Monahan has just returned from White Sulphur Springs, where he had a physical culture class of the same sort that he runs at Southampton in the summer. We spoke to him about Willard.

"Sure, he could get into shape again," he said. "Willard isn't an ordinary man. No one who hasn't worked with him realizes how big and strong and tough he is. It would just be a question of his willingness to do real work."

Many think that an effort by Willard to come back would be a joke, but that shouldn't discourage him. Most people thought he was a joke up to the time he fought Johnson. His close friend, Ray Archer, once said to us: "No time he ever had less encouragement than Willard. He was big and slow and he knew nothing about boxing. Almost every one tried to discourage him. They said he was a big, awkward dud and never would be anything else, but they didn't figure his dogged determination. Jess has a world of grit. Persons may say that this or that man made Willard, but I tell you he made himself. He made up his mind to be a champion and kept at it till he finished his job."

First basemen with George for a first name seem to be doing pretty well this season. George Slaughter and George Kelly have been socking the ball for an average of well over .400.

It hasn't been raining rain to the Yanks. It's been raining George H. Ruth in a few more ball games.

Many persons who aim to be funny are bum aimers.

Cardinals Win Their Third in Row From the Reds

Pfeffer Starts Badly, but Makes Strong Finish.

ST. LOUIS, May 5.—St. Louis made it three in a row over Cincinnati to-day, winning 3 to 2. A rally in the fourth gave the Cardinals all their runs off Laque.

Pfeffer started badly, but pitched great ball in the late innings. Stock, third baseman for St. Louis, was not in the game, having been suspended for three days for a row with the umpires yesterday.

SOUTH FIELD FANS SEE COLUMBIA WIN

Heights Nine Beats Cornell in Pitching Duel, Three to Two.

Fans at South Field witnessed real baseball yesterday when Columbia beat Cornell in a close, hard fought game by a score of 3 to 2.

In spite of the soggy field both nines played airtight ball, Columbia making but one error and Cornell none.

The game was more of a pitchers' battle than previous games on South Field, with Wunderlich beating Maloney.

A feature was the kicking at the decisions of the umpires by the Cornell players. On every close play they would rush at the umpire and endeavor to convince him he was wrong. Two of the Cornell college debaters were banished from the field.

The Lion artillery went after Maloney in the first inning and scored a run. Cornell tied the score in the fifth.

Maloney, not to be outdone, came back in the half of the fifth with two runs, when Smith singled and scored Wunderlich. Maloney, who had pitched a neat third bagger, scored Munns.

Giants' Second Team to Play Elks' Nine in Benefit Game

The second team of the New York Giants will journey to Staten Island tomorrow to meet the nine of the Staten Island Lodge of Elks in a game for the benefit of the Richmond County Memorial Hospital, which is badly in need of funds. The contest is to be played on the Curtis High School field at St. George.

John McGraw, the Giants' manager, already has sent word that he will personally lead the New York team and that Charles Stoneham, owner of the Giants, will accompany the ball team.

McGraw has named Virgil Barnes and Gaston as his battery. The game has aroused great interest among the fans and it is said that 5,000 tickets have been sold in advance.

With the Scholastic Athletes

In what may be the deciding game in the Public Schools Athletic League title series for the Manhattan-Bronx-Richmond division, and easily the star attraction on to-day's schoolboy baseball program, George Washington will face the Stuyvesant nine at Starlight Park at 2:30. Neither nine has met defeat so far.

The lineup for the Washington-Stuyvesant contest will be: Washington—V. Mast, ss.; Callo, rf.; McCannville, p.; Baker, 3b.; Tomisawa, 2d.; Watson, lf.; Schwartz, c.; S. Mast, cf.; and McCann, 1b. Stuyvesant—Wend, 2b.; Nelson, lf.; Whalen, cf.; Flynn, p.; Beck, ss.; Hoekelman, c.; Gierschewski, 1b.; Benjamin, rf.; Nocero or Schenck, 3b.

The rival twirlers, Bernis Flynn and Hugh McCannville, are known for their exceptional coolness in the pinches. McCannville has won four P. S. A. L. contests, not allowing more than six hits in any one game, and being backed up by almost perfect fielding. Stuyvesant has shown the ability to stick it out to the end.

Other baseball games will bring together Flushing and Jamaica, Evander and Textile, Bushwick and Eastern District, Newtown and Richmond Hill, Boy's High and Commercial, Clinton and Townsend, Commerce and Curtis, New Utrecht and Erasmus, in P. S. A. L. contests; Clason and City College freshmen, Horace Mann and Poly Prep, Morris and White Plains, De La Salle and Iona School.

The Boys' High School lacrosse team, undefeated in this city, including among its victims Poly Prep and Erasmus, will engage the Penn Freshman spoon-wielders in a match at Philadelphia to-day.

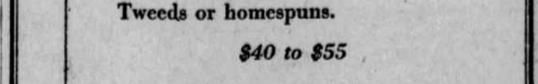

The annual interscholastic swimming championships for girls will be held this afternoon under the auspices of the New York Women's S. A. in the pool of Evander Childs High School.

The girls who will perform for their schools include Miss Helen Wainwright of Newtown High, holder of four titles and one world record; Miss Ethel McGary of Evander Childs, who recently broke the record for 300 yards, and the Misses Lillian Stoddard, Frances Cooney and Dorothy Delaney of Flushing H. S.; Miss Helen Briscoe of Julia Richman, and Miss Gertrude Kahrs of George Washington.

Miss Aileen Rignin, 15, and Miss Ethel Baker, 13, not yet in high school, will meet in a special race at 400 yards.

The High School of Commerce freshman swimmers, topping the P. S. A. L. with a string of six victories, will face the rival twirlers, Bernis Flynn and Hugh McCannville, in the feature match in the C. C. N. Y. pool this morning. Clinton has received but one setback. If Commerce triumphs it will clinch its hold on its second consecutive yearling swim title.
